

ANNOUNCEMENT

Inks: The Journal of the Comics Studies Society is pleased to announce several editorial changes. Susan Kirtley is taking over the role of Editor-in-Chief from Qiana Whitted. Kirtley, having served as an Associate Editor of the journal since 2019, expressed her admiration for Whitted's example of excellence in leadership as well as her desire to maintain the high standards and ethic of collegiality at the journal.

Furthermore, Brannon Costello will be stepping into the position as Associate Editor of Book Reviews and Lara Saguisag is joining as a new Associate Editor. Kay Sohini continues in her role as Assistant Editor and is joined by continuing Associate Editors Marc Singer and Jeanette Roan. Inks is enormously grateful to those stepping down from their positions, including Carol Tilley (Associate Editor), Andrew Kunka (Associate Editor of Book Reviews), and Adrienne Risha, (Assistant Editor of Book Reviews).

Inks: The Journal of the Comics Studies Society invites scholarly essays on any aspect of comics, including comic strips; comic books, papers, and magazines; graphic novels, albums, and other graphic books; webcomics and other electronic formats; single-panel cartoons, including editorial and gag cartoons; caricature; animation; and all other related forms and traditions. We are also open to ideas for pieces that spotlight notable archival collections, original comics essays, interviews and roundtables, and special issue pitches.
